Sir,

Sub: APSCHE- Academic Cell –Free Foundational Skill Training Programme for students studying in the affiliated colleges of the concerned university in the State - Offered by TCS- MoU between Council and TCS – Request to support APSCHE and TCS in the implementation of the programme and send confirmation – Regarding.

-oOo-

This is to inform that TCS iON™, a strategic business unit of Tata Consultancy Services (TCS), is offering a 20-hour Foundational Skill Training program to students. The training program will cover Interpersonal Skills, E-Mail Etiquette, Group Discussion, Presentation & Soft skills, Resume and Letter Writing, Interview Preparation, Telephone Etiquette and IT Foundational skills. It will be a self-paced training, and students can access the course content anytime, anywhere and on any device through A.P State Council of Higher Education website.

The program will be made available free of cost to all students in the state of Andhra Pradesh which can be accessed through the website of the Council, www.apsche.org and by clicking on to the link <https://iur.ls/D/DD4>. On completion of the program, students will be assessed, and a digital certificate will be awarded to them. The intent is to enhance students' competency by equipping them with the Foundational and Soft Skills required by the industry. The institutions can also opt for awarding credits upon completion of the programme.

As the programme would provide students with employability skills, the Universities are requested to support the APSCHE and TCS for successful monitoring and implementation of the programme. The Universities, therefore are requested to take consent from each affiliated College for implementation of the programme in their College and also to motivate the students to enrol in the free Foundational Skill Training program and complete the course.

In this background, the Vice-Chancellors of the State Universities are requested to issue necessary instructions to their Registrars to extend their cooperation on behalf of the University to associate with APSCHE and TCS for successful monitoring and implementation of the programme ie Free 20-hour Foundational Skill Training program in all the Degree Colleges affiliated and/or administered by the Universities. The Universities, through the Registrars are requested to send a letter to the Chairman, APSCHE communicating the acceptance of the University to support APSCHE and TCS for implementation of the programme in all affiliated colleges and University colleges for the benefit of the student community.

Yours faithfully,

CHAIRMAN
